

Annette Johnson

Annette has worked hand in hand with executive management to develop and maintain the type of organizational culture that would create a highly motivated and productive workforce. Over her twenty plus year career, one of her goals has been to become a creative, adaptive and facilitative leader who helps build organizations that can achieve operational excellence while fostering employee and employer relations.

Annette achieved a Bachelor of Science in Organizational Behavior from University of North Texas and shortly thereafter attained The Professional in Human Resources (PHR®) certification from The HR Certification Institute.

Now, as a professional consultant she collaborates to identify needs, enable change, engage people and deliver customized solutions to achieve desired results.
