

Dr. Jay
Kent-Ferraro

Dr. Jay received post-doctoral training at the prestigious Gestalt Institute of Cleveland, with a specialty in working with small groups and intimate systems. He completed an APA-approved internship with specialties in family psychiatry at the Children's Medical Center. He is a Licensed Professional Counselor, and Certified Corporate Coach & Trainer. Chosen as a Diplomat of the American Psychotherapy Association and Board Certified in Professional Counseling, Dr. Jay offers a unique blend of credentials and experience to his consultancy, and is therefore widely recognized as an expert who possesses sound business acumen in interpersonal technologies.

In addition to founding Empowerment Technologies, an executive coaching, training, and consultation firm that specializes in emotional-intelligence consultancy, Dr. Jay is a frequently featured radio and TV guest who deals in particular with personal- and professional-development topics.

He and his wife Julie are authors of the provocative tell-all book, Surprised By Love: One Couple's Journey from Infidelity to True Love (www.surprisedbylove.com). As a result of this powerful story of hope, transformation, and reconciliation following an affair, Dr. Jay now has the rare and unique privilege to work alongside Julie as they join their talents, offering transformational seminars, keynote presentations, and consulting and coaching for couples committed to redesigning their relationships. He and Julie have recently been featured on the Oprah Network and Dr. Drew.
