

Kevin O'Connor

Since 1976, Kevin has spoken professionally more than 85 times per year on average. He has coached 125 professionals around the country and teaches graduate students at Chicago's Loyola University as well as teaches at Columbia College, Chicago's performing arts school. He has presented at The George Washington University in DC, the Weatherhead School of Management at Case Western Reserve University, has taught at the Katholieke Universiteit in Leuven, Belgium, outside of Brussels, and has presented to physicians in Dubai, scientists in London, and executives in Buenos Aires.

Kevin is faculty for the American College of Healthcare Executives and the American College of Physician Executives. He has worked extensively with technical professionals, scientists, sales professionals, engineers, and the executives who lead them.

Kevin most recently has co-authored three books with Cyndi Maxey: Speak UP! A Woman's Guide to Presenting Like a Pro (St. Martin's Press, NYC, 2008) and Present Like a Pro (2006, St. Martin's Press). Their latest book is "Ten Steps for Successful Time Management" published by ASTD Press in 2010.

He has written and contributed to four other books and is currently writing a book on advanced facilitation techniques as well as a book on influencing those who don't think they have to be influenced! Kevin holds the CSP designation (Certified Speaking Professional), which is the highest earned honor in the speaking profession. Less than 590 people in the world hold this honor for speaking and teaching excellence.
